FAMILY RITE: The most important part of Christmas, aside from things like Santa Claus and oresents, is buyino and trimming the Christmas tree. Spruce? Fir? Scotch pine? Where's the tree-stand? Who's going to put on the lights? When do we get to put on our chains? Do we put a Santa Claus on top or a star? Remember last year, when... Peter and Lynette Danylchuk and their son, Michael, are giving due and serious thought to this vital purchase. It's the Palmer Square lot and Cliff Moore is the photographer.

Judge's Ruling Indicates Moffat May Retain Committee Seat after Temporary Appointment

Democrat Abbot Low Moffat may yet retain his seat on Township Committee. Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch ruled Friday that Committee may make a temporary appointment, good until the November election, to bring membership on Committee up to its full complement of five. He said the appointee must be a Democrat.

Republican Josie Hall, elected to Committee in November, promptly said she would appeal. Elizabeth Hutter, the sole Republican on Committee, said this week that she wanted to study the matter further before deciding whether to join Mrs. Hall in the appeal.

Some Committee members are saying that Committee had agreed to go along with the court's decision. But, Mrs. Hutter says, "I said I'd accept the final decision of the court, but I'm not sure this is the final decision.

A broken voting machine in District 12 gave Mr. Moffat only one vote, and 16 to his Republican opponent, Tod Peyton. This meant that Mr. Peyton apparently won the election, but Judge Schoch set aside the election.

Attorneys for Mr. Peyton and Mrs. Hall appealed his decision, but the Appelate Court still hasn't handed down a ruling on the matter.

If the appeals court overturns Judge Schoch's November ruling, then Mr. Peyton, with his apparent lead over Mr. Moffat, would be declared the winner and would take a seat on Township Committee.

Judge Schoch's ruling Friday was on a declaratory judgment in which the Township asked him to say how the municipality should proceed. Edward Meredith, attorney for Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Hutter, took his request for instruction straight to the Appelate Court. The case would end up there, anyway, he said, and this move could save time. The Appelate Court refused his request.

The first thing Judge Schoch did was to say that New Jersey's "vacancy" law does apply in the Township's case. This is the law that tells municipalities how to fill vacancies on governing bodies.

The Democrats' lawyer, Joyce Usiskin of Usiskin and Mueller, Princeton, said the empty seat should be filled by a Democrat because the law says it must be filled by someone from the same party as the previous incumbent.

As defined in the statutes, she said, "incumbent" is a person, whereas "vacancy" refers to the office, itself. She argued that the purpose of the law was to carry forward the most recent recorded expression of the collective will of the majority of the voters.

Since that was thwarted by the broken machine, the best thing that can be done, she told the court, is to carry forward the last-recorded expression of opinion by the electorate, and that would mean naming a Democrat.

Judge Schoch, deciding against a special election, said the intent of the law was to protect communities from special elections. They are expensive -- $18,000 in this case, to be borne entirely by the Township -- and time-consuming, because the whole election procedure has to be followed, exactly as it is in November.

Asked whether Mr. Moffat would indeed be named, Mayor Bleiman said he would name the "most qualified Democrat to sit in the seat." And that, in Mayor Bleiman's view, is Mr. Moffat.

Town's Ornithologists Will Go Forth Sunday on Annual Bird Count; Record Set Last Year When 99 Different Species Were Seen Here

While Father is engrossed in his new book, children in their new toys and Mother is trying to bring order out of Christmas chaos, 60 to 70 Princeton area residents will participate Sunday in the annual pre-dawn-to-after-dark Christmas Bird Count.

Sponsored by the National Audubon Society, this annual census originated on Christmas Day, 1900, when Dr. Frank Chapman of the American Museum of Natural History suggested that the long-time family custom of the time of shooting every bird in sight for sport on Christmas afternoon be replaced with a bird count. That year, 27 people participated in 25 different counts. Last year, a record 25,000 bird-lovers took part in nearly 1,100 individual counts held throughout the United States and Canada, of which 23 were held in New Jersey.

"GRAND OLD MAN OF BIRDING:" Charles H. Rogers, in his office at Guyot Hall where, surrounded by specimens of all the known bird families in the world but one (for which he is actively negotiating) he reminisced on a life time of many interests.

According to the rules, the Christmas Count must be taken within one 24-hour period during the two-week Christmas season – exactly which day is a local decision – in an area confined to a 15-mile diameter. In Princeton, where the Christmas Bird Count has been held uninterruptedly since 1901, the center is the Graduate College Tower and within a 7½ mile radius as the crow traditionally flies in each direction, field observers and feeder observers will tally every bird seen or heard during a period of eight hours, the minimum time recommended for all participants.

Ray Blicharz of Trenton is the official compiler and route organizer for the Princeton Count. He took on the responsibility in 1963 when Charles H. Rogers, Curator of Ornithology at Guyot Hall and Princeton's "Grand Old Man of Birding" decided it was time to relinquish the organizational tasks.

Mr. Rogers, who will be 88 in mid-January, is past president of the New Jersey Audubon Society, and come Sunday, as he and his wife Margaret drive out to count the ducks and geese in the Pond at Squibb research headquarters on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, he will have participated in 75 out of the 76 counts.

Record Set in 1974. That evening leaders of the group will assemble at the Rogers' house on Haslet Avenue, as they have for years, for supper and the final tally. Last year, 72 participants; 48 in walking and driving groups of two or three each and another 24 stationed at feeders, observed more than 95,099 individual birds, a count record. The terrain they covered included woods, ponds, streams, swamps, fields, hedgerows, the canal and its towpath, pine groves and residential areas, and it yielded a record 99 different species.

According to Mr. Blicharz, The Christmas Bird Count is the cooperative effort of many people, some of whom have covered special routes for years. Margaretta Cowenhoven and her partner, Margaret Manning, annually traipse through the Clark and Knox properties on Mountain Avenue and continue on down the old Johnson Trolley Line to the woods around Johnson Park School, finding sparrows and titmouse in great numbers, with an occasional catbird or thrush.

Philip Sigler and his son ndrew have made a ten-year specialty of the farm areas around Dutch Neck, Plainsboro and Cranbury, and have turned in sightings of Snow Buntings and Lapland Longspurs which add zest to the final tally.

The Delaware-Raritan Canal and its towpath, a rich source of birds, are carefully covered in segments. Mr. Blicharz himself takes the southwest portion from Trenton to Baker's Basin; Tom Poole leads a group through the Institute Woods and the Wildlife Refuge. Then Charlie Leck, Curator of Ornithology at Rutgers, takes over the portion from Alexander Street to Harrison Street and on across Route 1 to Walker-Gordon Farms, where "wonderful" birds may be found in the surrounding weed fields and manure piles.

Seven-Mile Route. Another Rutgers professor, Ted Chase, leads a group from Aqueduct Pond to Rocky Hill, and Mary Doscher walks a seven-mile stretch from Rocky Hill to Griggstown. Two well-known Princeton bird lovers, Tom and Margaret Southerland, go out on whatever route that Mr. Blicharz assigns them.

Many of these individuals do some precount day scouting to turn up an unusual find and to make sure it stays around for the count. This year, interest has centered around a Bald Eagle sighted first at ETS and again sitting in a tree on Federal City Road. A radio station broadcast the news when it was phoned in, and Mr. Blicharz and his friends are nervous about too much publicity of the whereabouts of this symbol of the United States and an endangered species.

Another rarity in these parts is the Boreal Chickadee that has been spotted in Marquand Park. This brown-headed relative of the more familiar Black-Capped Chickadee nests in the Boreal Forests of northern Canada, but recently recently there have been sightings in Massachusetts and New York State, and a sighting this far south has prompted Mr. Blicharz to put the bird on the Philadelphia rare bird alert.

BOREAL CHICKADEE: Brown capped and less common cousin of the familiar bird feeder visitor, this active little bird sings a husky "sick-a-dee-dee" as if it has a cold in the head, according to one book on North American birds.

Five or six species of owl – "choice birds" for the count – will be recorded in the final tally, many by sound rather than by a sighting. Fred Ware is one who gets up at 3:30 in the morning and goes out with tape recorded calls of the screech owl. Last year he accounted for 18 of the 29 tallied.

Meanwhile those stationed in comparative warmth and comfort watching their feeders are instructed at a minimum to take a count at the first early-morning feeding and then again in the late afternoon. Some dedicated souls sit by their windows all day so they won't miss that chance appearance of the Evening Grosbeak. The Harry Sayens of Edgerstoune Road last year decided to do a little more, and with sons Henry and George made two walks, morning and evening through the residential area surrounding Hun School and were rewarded with a pileated woodpecker.

Other dedicated feeder watchers include Dorothy Schoch on Balcourt Drive and Kate Bramwell on Bayard Lane. Lillian Grosz has tallied many species around her home on Pretty Brook Road. As it did last year, TOWN TOPICS will publish the complete Christmas Bird Count after it has been compiled.

Like Baltimore Orioles? They Like Pound Cake

Princeton has become known as the winter capital for New Jersey Baltimore Orioles.

This is largely the result of the efforts of Cynthia Fox of 134 Cedar Lane, who has counted as many as seven of the orange and black birds at her feeder at a time. But then she offers them a rich fare of crumbled pound cake, peanuts in a string bag and apples pared around the middle and hung on a wire.

Mrs. Esther Loos is a runner up with five Baltimore Orioles attracted to her backyard at 5 Erdman Avenue. Her secret formula is maple syrup, which she puts out in shallow jar lids. She reports that the birds take the syrup in their beaks and then seem to preen their feathers with it.

FRISCH TO RUN

Against Firestone. Township residents will have to choose between school board candidates after all. Rosalind Frisch, 145 Ridgeview Circle, has filed to run against incumbent Gail Firestone for the one Township seat available this year on the Princeton Regional School Board.

Deadline is 4:30 this Friday. So far, no one has come forward to run against Borough incumbents Joan Doig and Judith Getis who will seek a second term on the school board.

Meanwhile, the State Senate passed, 34-1, legislation to postpone school elections and the adoption of school budgets by one month. It is expected that the measure will pass the Assembly also and if it does, Governor Brendan T. Byrne

GUIDELINES ADOPTED

By School Board. In action taken last week after TOWN TOPICS' press time, the Princeton school board adopted 8-0 the guidelines for its relations with Superintendent Philip E. McPherson. Board member J.B. Smith was absent.

The 14 points have been reduced to 13. Number 11, which the superintendent once compared to a kind of by-law, was eliminated.

$1,075 IS STOLEN

From Craft Cleaners. Three money bags in separate locations containing $1,075 were stolen between 5:30 Saturday afternoon and 8:17 the next morning from Craft Cleaners, 225 Nassau Street. A lead pipe was used to break a window on the south side of the building.

According to police, $900 was in a red bank bag, $100 in a grey bank bag and $75 in change in a plastic bag. In describing the theft as "suspicious," police said the money bags "had been hidden about the premises."

A Princeton High School student reported the theft Friday morning of his Konica T-3 35mm camera from his locker. It is valued at $300.

A $125 turntable and two stereo speakers were stolen Friday from a room in Walker Hall on the Princeton University campus. A window was broken to get inside, police said.

A Trenton resident told police that his car was stolen Saturday night while it was parked in front of 168 Nassau Street between 5:30 and 11:33. The car, a 1968 green four-door Impala with black vinyl top, has not been recovered.

There were two thefts last week from rooms in Hamilton Hall on the University campus. One victim reported a stereo amplifier ($150) taken between 3:30 and 8:30 p.m. after the intruder had broken a ground floor window, and another student listed a stereo cassette deck and clock radio stolen from his room between 5 and 7 p.m.

In other Borough thefts, an Illinois resident told police that his $95 raincoat was either taken by mistake or stolen last week while he was eating at the Alchemist & Barrister restaurant on Witherspoon Street, and an unknown amount of change was taken from the coin box of a clothes dryer in the basement of Tennent Hall on the campus of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

Township Thefts. A Ewing resident having lunch at the Rusty Scupper last week listed the theft of his white gabardine topcoat. Police said the coat, valued at $68, had been purchased only six weeks ago.

An office chair valued at $66 was stolen last week from outside a storage area door of the Ivy Manor and Furniture Mart Showroom in the Princeton Shopping Center. Police said that the chair had just been delivered by truck and left unattended.

Debbie Borden, a Lawrence Township resident, lost two convertible top boots stored behind the seat of her car while it was parked Friday from 5 to 9 p.m. in the Princeton Shopping Center lot. They were valued at $100.

The victim told police that she had locked her car and had found it locked when she returned.

27 ARRESTED

In Drug Raid. Authorities expect that more than 50 persons will be arrested for allegedly participating in a wide-spread interstate drug ring that extended into eight New Jersey counties, Pennsylvania, Florida, Louisiana, Texas and the District of Columbia.

Last week, 27 were arrested in raids conducted by the

THROUGH THE LOOKING-GLASS: Surveying the Princeton scene--TOWN TOPICS' year-long occupation--is especially pleasant when the newspaper's office windows are festooned and bewreathed and ornamented for Christmas (even the street-light in the little park across Mercer Extension takes on the appearance of a Christmas-tree ornament). It was the fancy of Kathy Price, TOWN TOPICS staff member who took this picture, to imagine that the office window sign mischievously turned its best profile to the photographer in a Christmas Greeting.

Thought for University's Board of Trustees: Town Would Be the Loser with McCarter Dark

Princeton takes McCarter Theatre for granted, like the post office, the dinky or the high school. It has come as a shock, therefore, to read that without additional support – MONEY, in the colorful vernacular of the theatre – the curtain may fall on the drama series at the end of this season.

A dark house? No professional theatre in Princeton, "the Athens of America?" Come on, now!

"What's out there, and do they care?" is the question from Princeton University, of which McCarter is a part. University trustees want to see tangible evidence of support for McCarter in the Princeton community before they will authorize Michael Kahn, producing director, to move ahead with serious fund-raising.

What's happened is that Rockefeller and Mellon grants totalling $100,000 will expire this year. They are not renewable. The University isn't going to reduce its committment to McCarter – around $110,000 to $120,000 – but it is not increasing its contribution to make up for the Rockefeller-Mellon loss.

"A really intelligent, sophisticated and caring audience," is the way Mr. Kahn has characterized the Princeton people out there, and the box-office seems to prove it.

SRO Sign Goes Up. In Mr. Kahn's first year – 1974-75 – the theatre played to 92 percent capacity, with most performances standing-room-only. In the current season, 12,507 saw "The Royal Family," and that's a record for a McCarter Theatre company. "A Grave Undertaking" had an audience of 10,972, which McCarter says is a record for a new play.

Mr. Kahn likes to point out that the 92 percent attendance was achieved with plays that weren't what he calls "standard crowd-pleasers." That's the season, you'll recall, that he produced O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon," Brecht's "Mother Courage" and his own – and Shakespeare's – "Romeo and Juliet."

Nobody has ever said, of a McCarter season, "Are they doing THAT old thing again?"

Controversies, of course, do follow hard upon such a program. High-proof arguments are still going on at cocktail parties over "A Grave Undertaking" and "Section Nine," but the arguments come from those same "caring" people Mr. Kahn talked about earlier. If they didn't care, they wouldn't shout so at their hostess.

Occasionally Experimental. "We have an audience here in Princeton," Mr. Kahn once told an interviewer for a New York theatre puhlication, "that is willing to come to something they have never seen before, and that's an opportunity very few regional theatres have. We can be experimental, or do plays that are rarely seen."

Some theatre-goers here, including one who says he is "wildly enthusiastic" about keeping McCarter going as a professional theatre, wish McCarter had a small, experimental theatre for new works. Plays like the new ones presented this season, some observers are saying, do not have broad, general appeal nor are they always of established quality. McCarter isn't a place, these theatre-goers say, for saying "Let's see how this goes..."

New plays were produced this season, Mr. Kahn says, because none at all were done in his first, 1974-75 year. Next season – and he sees enough light ahead to say "next season" – he plans Ibsen, Shaw, another Shakespeare. It's quite possible that he will bring his own "Winter's Tale" to McCarter as the final play of the current season.

Mr. Kahn likes to do plays that haven't worn the boards thin. "If I do a Moliere," he has said, "it won't be 'Tartuffe'. In some ways, I'd rather do 'Widower's Houses' than 'Major Barbara,' and I think a large part of my audience would understand that thinking."

Ford money, McCarter gets $35,000 a year from the National Endowment for the Arts – Federal money – and $5,000 of New Jersey's Arts Council money.

Both might increase, if the money is there.

McCarter reportedly has one of the smallest income-gaps of any comparable theatre. Places like the Long Wharf or the Arena Stage, for example, may have deficits of $400,000 to $600,000. McCarter's is around $300,000 to $330,000.

If the University continues to contribute $110,000 to $120,000, if the Feds can find $40,000 and New Jersey can keep its $5,000, McCarter would need to raise about $150,000 to $160,000, and Mr. Kahn thinks this is "fundable," with a combination of private and industrial money.

In his trips to Washington and his talks with Endowment for the Arts people, Mr. Kahn says he finds that they talk of McCarter as one of "the" leading regional theatres. Theatre officials from Minneapolis and Los Angeles turn up at McCarter, the New York Times and Time Magazine critics come to see what's on stage, David Merrick crosses the Hudson and the Millstone.

Community Support Urged. Mr. Kahn himself, sometimes reported as about to bow off stage, says firmly that he is committed to McCarter and to a fund-raising program to keep it alive.

Theatre-goers themselves comment on Mr. Kahn and one remarked recently, "He's a good, creative director. I'd like to see more of his Shakespeare..."

"I feel very strongly about this theatre, about McCarter," Mr. Kahn says. "I think the community would feel a real loss if McCarter's drama series were to end."

TOWN TOPICS agrees with Mr. Kahn and hopes the town can provide the University with the "tangible evidence" it seeks.

engagements there have become Princeton traditions: the Paper Bag Players, Marcel Marceau and Alvin Ailey.

Marcel Marceau, the renowned French master of mime, will make his 11th McCarter appearance in 20 years when he opens his American tour on Tuesday, January 6, and Wednesday, January 7, at 8 p.m. Marceau holds the McCarter record for the most performances by aoy one artist.

The first was in October 1955 and there has never been an unsold seat for any of his subsequent 25 performances. His program again will include a mixture of new material and old favorites, including selections from the "BIP" repertoire.

The Paper Bag Players return to McCarter for two performances on Saturday, January 10, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., as part of the "Specially for Kids" series. Acclaimed by the New York Times as the "best children's theatre in New York," the "Bags" productions are a combination of story, song, dance, mime, poetry, pantomime -- and anything else that fits. Their works are designed especially for young audiences 6 through 12.

The Alvin Ailey Dance Theatre, a regular visitor to McCarter for the past decade, visits Princeton for an unprecedented three - day engagement on Monday, January 19, through Wednesday, January 21, with a different program each evening at 8. The three performances will mark the Ailey Company's only engagement in New Jersey this season, and are being presented by McCarter under the Dance Residency Program sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts. While they are in Princeton, members of the Ailey Company will also participate in workshops and master classes, involving dance students from Princeton University and various dance studios.

FILM FOR CHILDREN

At McCarter Saturday. The "'Specially for Kids" series, presented by the McCarter Theatre, will offer two showings of Robert Radnitz' 1974 widely-acclaimed family film, "Where the Lilies Bloom" on Saturday, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Radnitz, producer of "My Side of the Mountain" and "Sounder," continues his genre of thought-provoking family-oriented films with this story of four orphans (5 to 16) who struggle to remain a family in rural North Carolina. The four children survive on their own by gathering and selling roots, leaves and bark for medicinals. "Where the Lilies Bloom" also chronicles their difficulties such as fending off nosey neighbors and having to share their mountain shack with various animals.

Written by Earl Hamner, Jr., the creator of "The Waltons" television series, the film was shot on location in the Blue Ridge Mountains, and its cast includes both professionals and non-professionals, headed by fifteen-year old Julie Gholson as the oldest girl.

Single admissions to both showings will be available at McCarter beginning at 10 on Saturday.

PLAYHOUSE

Lucky Lady: Why not take three of today's most popular film stars, pick a situation that throws them together and then let them wisecrack and play off one another just for sheer entertainment. It's been done hundreds of times by Hollywood, not always with satisfying results, but when the chemistry is right, the results can be...well as good as they are in "Lucky Lady." Film companies traditionally save their best pictures for the Christmas holiday-- or the ones they think audiences will most enjoy-- and "Lucky Lady" opens around the country on Christmas Day.

The major characters are three, all of them very good indeed. Liza Minelli is Claire Dobie, a 1920s rumrunner, aided and abetted by Burt Reynolds and Gene Hackman. Both are in love with Claire. In running booze up the California coast, they have brushes with the Coast Guard and "The Mob," which frowns on free-wheelers.

It's a breezy, carefree, frothy existeoce as they reach out for all the gusto they can, and who cares if the pace falters at times or if the characters sometimes take themselves seriously. In fact, the producers were so caught up in the film's joie de vivre that they changed the original ending in which Reynolds and Hackman were killed, and installed the traditional happy ending.

Yes, Virginia....

TROUBADOUR TO PLAY

In McCarter Concert. Series II of the Princeton University Concerts will present Martin Best in the Art of the Troubadour at McCarter Theatre on Monday, January 5, at 8:30.

Martin Best's art is that of the minstrels and troubadours of Medieval times who entertained courtiers and commoners in castles, palaces, inns and town squares across Europe. Like his roving predecessors, Mr. Best tells his stories and sings his songs to the accompaniment of lute and guitar.

Mr. Best's repertoire ranges from the intense cansos of 12th century troubadours, through Renaissance Europe, into the rich world of 17th and 18th century guitar song and thence to the present day, from whose material he includes folk-song, flamenco, Beatles' melodies, and the song cycles he writes himself. One of his most successful compositions is a cyclic setting of poems by native American Indians which will be included in his program, along with a salute to Spain and Ravel's "Pavane for a Dead Princess."

THREE WORKS PLANNED

By Princeton Opera Group. As its contribution to the Bicentennial celebration, Princeton Opera Association will present three American operas at McCarter Theatre on January 16 and 17. Now in rehearsal are Leonard Bernstein's tragically poignant "Trouble in Tahiti," Thomas Pasatieri's sad-sweet "La Divina" and Douglas Moore's comic "Gallantry."

"Trouble in Tahiti" will feature soprano Cheryl Chang and baritone Herbert Hunsberger in the leading roles, supported by a Greek chorus of a dozen singers. Renita D'Ippolito of Princeton directs. The libretto explores the "American Dream" gone awry, with all trappings including the classic failure to communicate.

Pasatieri's "La Divina," directed by Leyna Gabrielle of New York City, concerns the farewell performance of a famous and flagrantly temperamental diva, sung by soprano Virginia Cole. Her faithful maid, Cecily, will be sung by mezzo Marthe Rowen. Haemen, the Manager, will be portrayed by baritone Steve Owen and tenor Howard Crossland will be seen in the part of the Young Conductor.

In "Gallantry," Douglas Moore's comic spoof on TV soap operas, the action, replete with station breaks, takes place in and around the operating room of a big city hospital. Mezzo Nancy Jackson of Lawrenceville will sing the part of The Announcer. Baritone John Woodard of Trenton will appear as Dr. Gregg, coloratura soprano Valerie Cade of Plainsboro will play the star-crossed nurse, Lola and tenor Bruce Turner of Westminster Choir College will portray Lola's hapless boyfriend.

"Gallantry" is the case of Doctor loves Nurse, Nurse loves Boyfriend, Doctor fractures his Hippocratic Oath and now a pause for station identification. Harold Hogstrom of Newtown directs. All musical direction is by Igor Chichagov who will lead a full orchestra in this "Evening of American Opera" by the Princeton Opera Association.

One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest. Although the pathos outweighs the comedy, and much of it is pretty rough stuff, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is well worth being put through the wringer.

Based on Ken Kesey's best-selling chronicle of a boisterously free spirit who gleefully disrupts the ordered apathy of a lunatic asylum, the message of the film – that society's apparent misfits are potentially more sane than those who would keep them under lock and key -- is somewhat dated. But though that premise would provoke few raised eyebrows, the film, as directed by Milos Forman, is frequently riveting. It's tragicomedy relevance boils down to the individual's spirit's need to soar away from repression of any sort.

As Randle P. McMurty, a cheerful, brawling petty convict who feigns insanity so that he can spend most of his six-month stretch under observation at the state asylum instead of straining his back on a work farm, Jack Nicholson's highly charged performance will probably earn him another shot at next year's Oscar for Best Actor.

Nicholson soon becomes the rallying point for his fellow patients and the result is an immediate clash with the indomitable Head Nurse whose dogmatic and moralistic approach to her patients is 180 degrees away from Nicholson's free-wheeling solutions.

Nicholson's reign as king of the asylum is vivid but short-lived; the film ends on a dispairing, numbing note. Before that, however, there are two noteworthy sequences of power. The best has Nicholson turning the ward into an unruly cheering section sitting around the blank screen of a television set and going increasingly wild as he gives a play-by-play description of a phantom ballgame. A fascinating film.

United Fund Tops Half-Million Mark, Believes Its Goal May Be Met for First Time Since '69

PROGRESS REPORT: Dr. Aleck Borman of E.R. Squibb, Chairman of the 1975 United Fund-Red Cross Campaign, getting assistance in changing the campaign thermometer to the 80% mark from two young students in the Y.W.C.A. After-School Program. Barbara Walker and Tony Granger, both of Princeton, helped Dr. Borman and said they love attending the Day Care program at the Y.W., one of the 20 beneficiary services supported by the United Fund.

"We're in the home stretch and it looks like we've got a chance to reach our United Fund-Red Cross goal for the first time since 1969," Dr. Aleck Borman, Chairman of this year's United Fund-Red Cross campaign, said this week.

"More than $500,000 has already been received from contributors in the 13 communities served by the United Fund," Dr. Borman noted, "with many people increasing the size of their gifts which enabled us to reach 80 per cent of our goal of $655,000 this month."

"We also look forward to receiving about $105,000 from loyal United Fund supporters who have given generously in the past and whose contributions are expected to come in during the final weeks of our 1975 Campaign. This leaves approximately $50,000 still to be raised," said Dr. Borman, "and to get it we've launched a special 'Final Fifty' Campaign directed toward companies, merchants and individuals who up to now have never contributed to the United Fund. Their gifts, added to the wonderful support already received or anticipated should put us over the top."

"Our tired and over-worked fund raisers are making this final effort during the holiday season," said Dr. Borman, "so we can give the 20 community agencies supported by the United Fund-Red Cross Campaign the basic money they need to continue serving us during 1976."

Dr. Borman concluded by saying that those who have not yet contributed to this year's Campaign can do so by making their check out to the "United Fund", and mail to P.O. Box 1152, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

PLAN "MORVEN" PICKET

For Carter, Artis. Supporters of former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and John Artis were planning a late Monday afternoon picketing of "Morven," the governor's mansion, in a move to urge Governor Brendan T. Byrne to grant clemency to the pair.

The New Jersey Rubin Carter - John Artis Defense Committee has been joined by a group of professional and businessmen, "One Hundred Black Men of New Jersey," in making the request of the governor.

The new group, whose representatives called on Governor Byrne this past weekend, have asked the governor "to take into consideration, based on our understanding – that there was no trial held for the two men eight years ago."

Carter and Artis have been serving life sentences. They were convicted of killing a bartender and two patrons of a Paterson bar in 1966. They declare that they were framed, and they are charging that authorities suppressed evidence which they say is favorable to them.

$2.5 MILLION BEQUEST

To Princeton Art Museum. A $2.5 million bequest to endow acquisitions for Princeton University's Art Museum has been established by the estate of Fowler McCormick, a graduate of the Class of 1921.

Peter C. Bunnell, director of The Art Museum, in commenting on the McCormick bequest said "this magnificent endowment will enable the museum to pursue an acquisition program unique in its history. Never before has the museum been able to focus on its needs and directions with the confidence which such an endowment provides. Through this gift the museum will truly enter a new phase of its already distinguished existence."

Mr. McCormick, who died in 1973, was a grandson of both Cyrus H. McCormick, Sr., founder of the International Harvester Company, and John D. Rockefeller, Sr., founder of Standard Oil. Following his graduation from Princeton, Mr. McCormick worked for a time in radio, but in 1925 he joined International Harvester, becoming chairman of the board in 1946.

As a Princeton alumnus, Fowler McCormick served on the Advisory Councils of the University's Departments of Economics and Music as well as the School of Architecture and Urban Planning. He was a major contributor to the construction of the rowing tank in 1971 (he rowed with the Freshman Eight in 1918), and in 1972 he established a fund in the Department of Art and Archaeology to encourage and aid research efforts in the history of photography.

The McCormick name has been associated with Princeton since the 1870's. McCormick Hall, the home of the Department of Art and Archaeology and Marquand Library, adjoining the museum, was the gift in 1922 of Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Sr. and her sons and grandsons. The McCormick Professorship of Jurisprudence, established in 1897 in honor of Cyrus H. McCormick, Sr., and one of Princeton's most distinguished chairs, was first held by Woodrow Wilson.

Other McCormick gifts have supported university library and museum collections, urban research, the Isabella McCosh Infirmary, and fellowships in art and archaeology. In addition, a bequest of Gordon McCormick supports work of the Department of Art and Archaeology in memory of Dr. Howard Crosby Butler, professor of art and archaeology at Princeton from 1905 to 1922. In 1971 the university also received a bequest of $5 million from the estate of Cyrus H. McCormick, Jr., Class of 1879.

The Fowler McCormick Bequest to The Art Museum will further the objectives of Princeton's $125 Million Development Program, which seeks to provide the basis for a major reinforcement of the whole university -- of undergraduate education as well as graduate, of the humanities as well as science and engineering. To date, more than $100 million have been raised from foundations, corporations, and individuals, chiefly alumni.

5 NEW COURSES SET

For PAA's Winter Term. New courses in painting, printmaking, drawing, weaving and calligraphy will be offered in the Winter Art Class session of the Princeton Art Association. The eight-week term begins January 12.

Registration is now open for the 19 classes on the schedule.

New York artist Edith Teitelbaum will be among those joining the PAA staff. She will conduct a class in painting and drawing for beginners on Tuesday afternoon and one for intermediate and advanced students on Tuesday evening. Emphasis will be placed on teaching the student to "see as the painter sees". Discussion on the contemporary art scene will be an integral part of the advanced class.

A graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, Ms. Teitelbaum has also studied at De Paul University and Studio 14 in New York. She has had shows of her work at the Brooklyn and Riverside Museums and has been in many group exhibits. Her work is in the Hirschorn, Rubenstein, and other private collections.

Also new to the faculty is Paul Levitt, who will teach advanced watercolor painting on Tuesday morning. Mr. Levitt attended the Tyler School of Art in Rome and has a BFA from Tyler-Temple University.

He has taught at Rutgers, is a consultant for art editions, and has exhibited here and in Italy. Advanced watercolor techniques, and investigation into paper, value and color, and the structure of painting will be covered in the course, and there will be regular demonstrations.

Calligraphy. Another new offering for the winter will be "Calligraphy as an art form", a course in italic, cursive and other calligraphic hands, taught by Leona Kaufman on Wednesday morning. Ms. Kaufman is a graduate of Cooper Union and the Institute of Design of the Chicago School of Fine and Industrial Arts. She is a member of the Society of Scribes and the Society for Italic Handwriting.

Elizabeth Ruggles, well-known in the Delaware Valley as a lecturer and teacher, will conduct a Friday afternoon class in drawing, designed for both the beginner and the experienced student. Ms. Ruggles has won many awards for her paintings, and she recently gave a demonstration in portrait painting for the Art Association.

A Friday morning class in watercolor for beginning and intermediate students will be taught by Judy Wagner, a Briarcliff College graduate who has studied watercolor with Donal Werden, Edward Whitney, John Pike and Robert Wood. Wet-in-wet and dry techniques will be covered.

A novelty will be a four week weaving workshop on Thursday afternoon, with Betty Park as instructor. Students will use a four-harness and other looms for work on individual projects. Ms. Park is a member of Artists-Craftsmen of New York, and she received her training at the University of Illinois, Indiana, and Art Students' League and the Penland School of Crafts.

Another new addition is Ann Woolfolk's course in silk screen printing, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon. Continuing classes include two for young people: Adventures in Creativity, for youngsters 7 to 11, with Eva Kaplan (Monday after school), and "Painting on Saturday Morning (ages 10 to 15) with Elizabeth Monath.

Also continuing are classes in oil and acrylic painting for advanced and intermediate and beginning students with Frederic Scudder and Marietta Kust on Monday, Intermediate printmaking with Renee Levine on Tuesday evening, and printmaking for beginners with Marie Sturken on Thursday evening. Sculpture with Jeanne Pasley (Thursday morning) and Life Drawing, taught by Zoltan Buki on Thursday evening, round out the program.

The Sunday morning life workshop for independent sketching and painting from a live nude model will also be offered again. This workshop is open to non-members at a slightly higher fee.

Membership in the Art Association, which can be taken out at registration time, is required for enrolling in courses.

The complete class schedule will appear in this issue of TOWN TOPICS. A brochure with detailed information is available on request to the P.A.A. 921-9173.

Anti-British Sentiment Results in Publication of "Plain Dealer," State's First "Newspaper"

The following article is one of a series TOWN TOPICS will publish on the American Revolution in collaboration with the New Jersey Bicentennial Celebration Commission. Its author is John T. Cunningham, who has written widely on the history of New Jersey.

Thomas Harris of Cohansey Bridge in Cumberland County knew on Christmas Day, 1775, that he was inviting the hangman's noose when he and fellow conspirators tacked the first copy of their Plain Dealer on the bar of Matthew Potter's tavern.

The other conspirators were known locally, but the newspaper clearly identified only Harris. In his own hand he admitted his potential for the gallows: "Thomas Harris, his hand and pen, wrote with my blood."

But if Harris were to be hanged, with him on the gallows would be Matthew Potter. The tavern keeper's boldness in permitting the Plain Dealer to hang in his tavern clearly stamped him as an outright rebel.

The fact that the Plain Dealer appeared every Tuesday morning probably made it New Jersey's first regular "newspaper." Sponsors explained that it was handwritten only because "there is no press within reach."

The publishers declared themselves interested in "enquiries and speculations on political occurrences and other important subjects particularly calculated to suit this place." They invited contributions, promising anonymity.

Anti-British sentiment motivated the sponsors of the Plain Dealer. Several had helped burn a shipload of British tea at Greenwich a year before. They were for independence to a man.

"Draw Our Swords." One of the tea burners, 23-year-old Ebenezer Elmer, was editor. He made his sentiments clear: "Let us draw our swords and never return them into their scabbards till we have rescued our country from the iron hand of tyranny and secured the pure enjoyment of liberty to generations yet unborn."

Not all of the columns in the Plain Dealer were of a political nature. One of the most noted exceptions was a treatise on bundling, a colonial custom whereby unmarried young men and women (properly chaperoned, in theory at least) kept warm under the same blankets while courting on cold winter nights.

Logically the first New Jersey revolutionary newspaper should have appeared in a more populated area, such as Newark or Elizabethtown, but residents of those centers apparently were satisfied with New York City newspapers. They also were well aware of British troops in New York City.

The isolation of Cohansey Bridge made a radical newspaper both necessary and possible. Few residents of southern New Jersey read Philadelphia newspapers or had visited that town of independent spirit. Conversely, revolutionary happenings in lower Cumberland County were not likely to bring enemy soldiers from Philadelphia.

Ironically, the turmoil that the editors sought to increase killed the paper. As war edged closer, Ebenezer Elmer and his young friends became increasingly active in the local militia and had little time for words.

Potter remained at home. On July 7, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was read by Ebenezer Elmer from the steps of Potter's Tavern. Across the street in the county courthouse, the town's own Liberty Bell pealed in celebration.

The Plain Dealer and Potter's Tavern both live on. The little newspaper is preserved in the Rutgers University library. Potter's Tavern has been saved and restored in Bridgeton, as Cohansey Bridge came to be known.

marijuana with intent to distribute it, were Gary J. Conlin, 26, of 23-16 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, a student at Mercer County Community College, and Richard W. Romero, 27 of Staten Island, N.Y.

The police said that they had been watching Conlin on suspicion of selling marijuana for some time. The investigation and raid were conducted in cooperation with Prosecutor C. Judson Hamlin and his task-force detectives.

The suspects were taken into custody in the parking lot of the North Brunswick Holiday Inn on Route 1, where a search of their vehicles allegedly revealed five pounds of marijuana in Conlin's car and $1,207 in cash.

Following arraignment, Judge Martin Golden of North Brunswick set bail on Conlin and Romero at $3,000 each.

Snow Removal Program for Senior Citizens Given First Test on First Day of Winter

Fortunately the season's first snowfall on Monday – appropriately on the first day of winter – was a light one, enabling the sponsors of a new snow removal system for senior citizens in Princeton to work out first-time wrinkles. The project is sponsored by the Princeton Joint Commission on Aging.

As explained by Councilman Martin Lombardo, one of the project's co-chairmen, approximately 180 students from Princeton High School, Princeton Day, Hun and St. Paul's have volunteered to "adopt" a senior citizen family. When a snowfall comes, they will shovel the sidewalk of their adopted family. Incidentally, more girls than boys have volunteered.

One-hundred sixty senior citizens -- widows, retired, those on fixed incomes -- have signed up for the program, said Mr. Lombardo, whose co-chairman is Warren Cruickshank. "They are from all across the board: Borough, Township, east side, west side -- it's an interesting mix."

New registrants will not be accepted after December 31, Mr. Lombardo said.

PROJECT LAUNCHED: Patty Rose, president of the PHS Interact Club, shovels snow from sidewalk of 96-year old Ira Warren, 4 Hamilton Avenue.

Mr. Davidson's letter in TOWN TOPICS (December 18, 1975) is so misleading that we would be remiss if we did not respond.

Mr. Davidson's letter, through innuendo and half-truths, leads the reader to believe that we at Princeton High School are providing an inaccurate class rank and, further, that we are suppressing the truth. To support his point of view, he goes oo to imply that Mr. Gould of Rutgers University and Mr. Callard of Princeton University support his position. A quick check with Mr. Gould and Mr. Callard indicates that they are quite satisfied with the procedure used by Princeton High School in computing class rank.

We do, in fact, provide an accurate class rank; one that was developed after careful study by a committee of knowledgeable students and staff. Our method of computing class rank is open to the closest scrutiny. Students, parents, and faculty are fully aware of our procedure. In fact, we publish the class rank procedure in the Student-Parent-Teacher Handbook, a copy of which is distributed to every student, parent, and teacher. The class rank procedure is explicit, but, for reasons better known to himself, Mr. Davidson has chosen to seize upon a single misnomer to build a questionable case that supports his own perception of what a class rank procedure should be.

Mr. Davidson advocates the use of a straight grade point average, a method which would be clearly unfair to our students. Under Mr. Davidson's method, a student who received four "A's" would rank higher than a student who received six "A's" and one "A minus." Is that fair? We think not.

As to Mr. Davidson's unconscionable assertion that we are suppressing the truth, we should like to stress that a statement describing our class rank procedure was sent to all colleges to which our students apply and another letter was also published in "The Tower," our school newspaper, as well as in the PTO Newsletter. In addition, we sent Mr. Davidson all this same material weeks ago. We have nothing to hide. Therefore, one is left to wonder what motivates Mr. Davidson in this matter.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We wish to thank TOWN TOPICS for the very interesting and informative article concerning the language problems of foreign visitors in our community.

We would, however, like to make one correction concerning the language class for foreign wives of the Princeton University Community. This program is directed by a committee of the University League with Mrs. Howard Ende as chairman and Mrs. John Suppe as her assistant. The classes are held in the Dorothy Brown Lounge at the University League Headquarters at 171 Broadmead.

The International Center at Princeton University came into being as an outgrowth of the joint concerns of the Overseas Wives Committee of the University League and Princeton Friends of Foreign Students.

Thank you again in this season of gratitude for helping the community have an increased understanding of the special problems faced by our overseas visitors.

You're Invited.....

All residents of the Princeton community are invited, as always, to the traditional New Year's Day reception that follows the swearing-in of new officials in Borough and Township.

This year, the reception will be held in the Harrison Street Firehouse. The hour is 1 p.m., following noon program in Borough Hall and 11 a.m. ceremonies in Township Hall.

The announcement and the invitation were issued this week by John McGee and Kate Litvack, president of the Republican and Democratic clubs respectively. The two parties divide -- equally -- the cost of the annual party.

It's a Prize Turkey

Seven people will sit down on Christmas Day to share the turkey won by — well, was it the Loop Bus ticket of Mrs. John C. Schenck III, 48 Wilton Street, or a ticket belonging to one of her two children?

The two kids take the Loop Bus home every afternoon from the "Y". Mrs. Schenck rides it to and from her job as clerk - typist in the development office of the Princeton Medical Group. So nobody really knows whose bus ticket plucked the winning bird.

The Schenck ticket came out of Monday's drawing in Borough Hall. The turkey was donated by Davidson's market.

To share their turkey, the Schencks have invited two young women who are retarded. One, 20 years of age, is a member of the Mercer Chapter of the Association for the Advancement of the Mentally Retarded. She lives with another family in Princeton and has a job here. Her 19 - year - old sister, who lives in an institution, will join the Schenck family, too, as they move in on that bird.

1st Snow, 1st Victim

The first snowfall of the season claimed its first accident victim at 2:26 Monday morning when Peter B. Glasberg, 22, of Titusville, driving on Route 206 (Stockton Street) skidded off the road near Edgerstoune and hit a pole.

Mr. Glasberg escaped injury but his car had to be towed away.

Less than an hour later at 3:19, Mathew Ostergren, 18, 9 Mount Lucas Road, swerved to miss a deer on Mt. Lucas and lost control. His small foreign car left the road and slid down an embankment in a wooded area. He was not injured.

Tiger Quintet Faces Powerful Alabama Monday After Breaking Even in Michigan Tournament

Having retained a measure of self-respect by breaking even in the Michigan Tournament, Princeton's basketball team will head for a far tougher assignment in its next holiday outing. At College Park, Maryland, Monday night the Tigers will face nationally-ranked Alabama in the second game of the Maryland Tournament.

Before that, the host team will play Seton Hall, presumably setting up a Maryland-Alabama final Tuesday. The Tigers are not the giant killers they were a year ago, and any other matchup in Tuesday's title game is highly unlikely.

SPORTS In Princeton

Alabama, 22-5 last winter and a member of the highly-rated Southeastern Conference, builds its offense around 6-10, 230-lb. Leon Douglas. He was good enough as a junior to be included on four All-America teams, averaging 20.7 points a game.

Douglas should dominate both backboards, where Princeton has not been strong for years, and will be more than a match for either Lon Ramati or Barnes Hauptfuhrer. The southerners lost three of their first seven men but are still off to a fine start this season. Neither they nor Princeton or Seton Hall are, however, a serious threat to second-ranked Maryland on its own court.

Consistent Strength. Maryland, a perennial national power under its controversial coach, Lefty Driesell, has not finished lower than eighth in the national rankings since 1972. The Terrapins have a consensus All-American in 6-4 John Lucas, who may find future honors difficult to achieve since he earned that status last season in his freshman year. Four of their returning starters averaged in double figures last year, led by Lucas at 19.5.

Seton Hall, on the other hand, is an opponent Princeton should handle if it is to honor its pre-season role of favorite in the Ivy League. The Pirates have their starting guards back but were hurt by graduation up front and are awaiting the return (from suspension for a recruiting violation) of 6-8 Dana Mosely.

Ability to stay out of foul trouble against Southern Illinois, whereas it was unable to do so in its opening game with Miami of Ohio, enabled Princeton to win the consolation round of the Michigan Tournament at Ann Arbor. The Tigers set a record (see box) by shutting out Southern Illinois at the free throw line, winning 69-58, after having been bounced out of the running the night before, 66-61, in a contest that better play would have won for them.

Having announced that "Armond Hill has got to shoot more if we are going to win," Coach Pete Carill was delighted to see his All-Ivy guard come up with a 21-point average in the two games--18 Friday night against Miami and 24 the following afternoon at the expense of Southern Illinois.

Tigers in Charge. After having been guilty of constant errors in their defeats by Villanova and Miami, the Tigers were in charge of Saturday's consolation round game virtually from the start. Their defensive skills returned, Hill had a hot hand, and their half-time lead of 40-32 allowed them to dictate the pace throughout the final period.

The 8-point margin at the intermission was increased to 13 (65-52) with five minutes to go, and a semi-stall assured them of victory. Hill's 24 points on eight baskets and 8-for-9 foul shooting were followed by 15 for Hauptfuhrer and a dozen for sophomore Frank Sowinski. The victors were outshot, 29-27, from the floor, but the astonishing margin of 15 to 0 in free throws made all the difference.

Hill Fouls Out. Squarely in the game after a 30-30 half-time tie with Miami, Princeton dropped steadily behind following the intermission as the string of turnovers and missed layups that had cost them victory over Villanova continued. Hill, Sowinski and Ramati all were in foul trouble, Hill playing his last six minutes with four on him before picking up his fifth with 2:56 to go.

That killed off the Tigers, despite ability to outshoot Miami from the floor in the second half, 12 to 10. Required to foul to gain possession as three baskets and one foul. Hill's 18 was the only respectable Princeton total, as Carill used nine of the 10 players available to him without success.

Michigan won its own tournament when it broke away from a 37-36 half-time lead over Miami and used a 14-

New Entry Made in Tiger's Record Book: So. Illinois Is Not Awarded a Foul Shot

Princeton's basketball team accomplished Saturday what it very possibly has never managed before in its 75 years of play -- holding its opponent scoreless from the foul line

There is, however, a slight catch -- such a record was wholly unlikely until the rule change of a few years ago, which stipulates that unless a player is fouled in the act of shooting, the first six personals a team commits merely allow the opposition to take the ball out of bounds At Ann Arbor Saturday, in its game with Southern Illinois, Princeton was charged with nine personals

Not one was called while a shot was being taken, and in neither half did the Tigers reach the limit of six As a result, no member of the losing team ever got to the free throw line

The Princeton record book, greatly expanded this year, concentrates almost entirely on offensive marks, listing a great many under "most points," "highest percentage," etc., and very few in the defensive category

The lowest number of points to which an opponent was held by the Tigers was recorded March 15, 1902, when the Orange and Black defeated St. John's Military Academy, 36 to 3 But one of those points (or maybe all of them) was a foul shot

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's an oddity ... When the Dallas Cowboys won the Super Bowl a few years ago, they were led by two players who had not been primarily football men ... The great receiver, Bob Hayes, was primarily a track man in college -- and defensive star Cornell Green had not even played football at all in college, but had played only basketball.

What's the record for one team going to the same post-season bowl game the most consecutive years? ... The record is held by Texas which went to the same bowl -- the Cotton Bowl -- for six straight years, 1969 thru 1974.

Here's a surprising fact about sports on television ... It's easy to guess that the Super Bowl and World Series rank first and second in attracting the most TV sports viewers -- but which sports 'event do you think got the third-highest number of viewers in TV sports history ... The answer, according to a recently published all-time TV report, is the Billie Jean King - Bobby Riggs tennis match of 1973, which has beaten everything in total viewers except the Super Bowl and World Series.

I bet you didn't know that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross - Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

1 surge in the early going after the intermission to coast to a 90-76 triumph. In the opening round, the Big Ten quintet defeated Southern Illinois, 75 to 49.

Tournament play will end for Princetoo at Maryland, unless it wins the Ivy title and earns an NCAA berth. If it fails on this count, its overall record is likely to be poor enough so that it would not be asked back to defend its NIT title because the field is expected to be cut from 16 to 8 as interest in the event dwindles.

TIGERS IN TOURNAMENT

Skaters Head for Troy, N.Y. A Princeton hockey team which is averaging five goals a game and yet is saddled with a 1-4 record will play this weekend in the annual Rensselaer Polytech Tournament at Troy, N.Y. On successive days starting Saturday, the Tigers will face the host team, Providence and Northeastern.

RPI, like the Orange and Black, is below .500 at this stage of the season, but its offense may be more than Princeton can handle. Providence and Northeastern have already defeated the Tigers this year by respective scores of 6-5 and 7-5.

Craig Tresham
In five games, six goals

Goalies Mike O'Leary and Robin Rollefstad have been giving perfectly good performances in the nets as they continue to alternate in handling the assignment. Their problems have been caused by defensive difficulties, which range from absence through injury of veteran Al Rosner to poor forechecking by Tiger forwards.

Princeton's offense has been paced by freshman Craig Tresham with six goals in five games, but the point-leader is senior Craig Dahl, who has five goals and three assists. Defenseman Henry Lane has provided unusual support from the blue line with a goal and half a dozen assists for seven points.

The Ivy League, meanwhile, may not follow its format of recent years because Harvard has already been defeated twice, once by Penn and once by Brown, and the Crimson is a surprising 2-3 overall. In recent years, it has consistently battled Cornell for the title, winning its last season with a perfect 12-0 mark.

Princeton, which has scored its lone victory of the season against an Ivy foe (6-2 over Penn), should stay out of the cellar at Yale's expense. The Elis, under one-time Princeton assistant coach Ted Lufkin, have yet to win in five games. Cornell and Brown appear to be the strongest entries, with Penn, victor over Harvard and Yale before losing to Princeton, Harvard and Dartmouth all good bets to finish among the top four.

PANTHERS ON THE WAY

To Banner Season. Two weeks ago approaching the opening, all indications pointed to an outstanding season.

Two weeks ago the Princeton Day basketball team stood ready to play in its opening game with all the prospects of an outstanding season ahead of it. Now, heading into the Christmas break with six games under its belt, the Blue and White has strongly reinforced those prospects.

Undefeated so far, the Panthers have been able to combine fine offensive stooting with an agressive, ball-hawking defense, that does not commit many fouls.

In winning the Peddie Tournament, the squad also showed it could respond in pressure situations, such as the two-point overtime win against Pennington. On the other hand, against weak teams, PDS is able to maintain its own high level of play.

The Hightstown Tournament on December 29 and 30 is next, with the Panthers playing the host school in the opening round at 8:30 on the 29th. A win there would put them in the finals the following night against the winner of the Hun-Lawrence contest.

The team will get another 10-day break, until an away game against Peddie on January 10. Another away game against Hun will follow, and although these will certainly be tough ones, the biggest thing on the schedule appears to be a January 31 contest at Lawrenceville. The Larries are also undefeated.

Two Easy Triumphs. This past week, the Blue and White added two more to the win column with easy victories over Delbarton and West Windsor.

The Pirates came into the PDS gym on Friday and tried the slowdown tactic for the first half. This strategy, an understandable one against a heavily-favored team, netted the losers zero points in the first half, while PDS had 20.

West Windsor abandoned the slow-down after the intermission, but with no more success. The Panthers outscored the losers 46-29 in the final two periods. Frank Konstantynowicz and Randy Melville shared the scoring honors with 16 points apiece.

Against Delbarton, the Panthers hit on 60 percent of their shots from the floor (30 for 50), and coasted to a 67-51 victory. The margin was 43-21 at the end of the third period, before coach Alan Taback began to substitute.

Konstantynowicz had 18 points and picked up six assists, Melville and Bill Baggitt both had 10. Melville also grabbed a dozen rebounds.

PHS PLAYS FRIDAY

In Tournament at Frenchtown. After evening its record at 1-1 with a 59-50 victory over Franklin Tuesday, the Princeton High School basketball team will be idle until Friday when it will participate in the opening round of the eight-team Kennedy Memorial Invitational Basketball Tournament at Delaware Regional High School in Frenchtown. The semi-finals will be played Saturday and the finals on Tuesday.

The opening game at 4:30 on Friday will match PHS against Voorhees High School. The latter is a new school about which PHS coach Marv Trotman nor, it seems, anyone else in this area knows anything.

At 6, Madison will oppose North Hunterdon; Vernon Township will oppose Delaware Valley at 7:15 in game three, and Middlesex will meet South Hunterdon at 9 in the evening's final game.

Although the tournament is a single elimination event, there will be four games on Saturday and Tuesday, as there will be consolation rounds among the losers.

HUN WINS PAIR

Takes Home Opener, 73-53. Shaking off a mistake-ridden first period in which it was outscored 10-8, the Hun School basketball team came on to take a 28-24 halftime lead over visiting Delbarton Friday afternoon and then went on to score the first eight points of the third quarter en route to a 73-53 win. The victory was Hun's fourth in five games.

Hun will be idle for 10 days until the Hightstown Holiday Tournament which will be played December 29-30. Hun's first round opponent will be Lawrence High, while host Hightstown High School will oppose Princeton Day School.

DILLIONE SCORES: Surrounded by four Delbarton players, Tom Dillione, a 6-3 transfer student from St. Anthony's, connects during an eight-point spurt by Hun in the third period. Hun won its fourth game in five starts, 73-53, as Dillione contributed 13.

After Hun had gone ahead on the shooting of Nick Brady, Terry McEwen and Ron Peyton for a 52-39 lead, the Green Wave (1-2) battled back to within seven, 52-45, but that was its best shot. With two minutes left and Hun ahead by 69-49, coach Dave Leete sent in the reserves.

"We got some good shooting – finally," commented Leete. Ron Peyton enjoyed his best offensive game although still partially hobbled with a not fully sound ankle which he broke this summer. The 6-4 sophomore poured in 27 points, including 9-for-12 from the foul line.

The remainder of Hun's "Big Four" contingent Tom Dillione added 13 while Brady and McEwen each had 12. Ten of McEwen's came in the second half. As a team, Hun was 19-for-25 at the foul line.

The foul line was even more decisive for Hun in its 61-59 edging of Admiral Farragut last Wednesday. Outscored 27-19 from the floor, Hun won the game with 23 points from the charity line.

Dillione scored on all seven of his shots from the floor and added three foul shots to lead hun with 17. McEwen and Peyton had 13 each and Brady 10.

After trailing by seven in the third period, Hun had opened up an 11-point spread in the final period only to see the home-team Middies rally. Hun was insured of its win after John Brady, Nick's younger brother, sank six straight foul shots in the closing minutes. Hun was 23-of-30 while Admiral Farragut, which lost its third in a row without a win, connected on only five of 14 free throws.

PHS MATMEN SPLIT

Topple Peddie, 37-18. Matt Wilkinson, Peter Kahn and Dave Robinson all extended their record to 3-0 this year as the Princeton High School wrestling team defeated visiting Peddie Saturday, 37-18. It was the Little Tigers' first win in three matches.

Robinson, starting his fourth year on the varsity, had the afternoon's fastest pin, flattening Bill Conover in 22 seconds in the 122-pound class. Kahn pinned his opponent in 3:04 and Wilkinson was almost as quick, pinning his man in 3:13 in the opening 101-pound bout. PHS heavyweight Nate Harris won by forfeit.

Capturing decisions for the Blue and White were Dave Wilson, who won, 7-0, in the 129-pound class; Steve Ebersole, who triumphed, 11-7, in the 148-pound division; Jim O'Grady, who won a major decision with an 11-1 win; and Paul Soderman, 170-pounder, who won his first match of the year, 7-2.

Peddie's 141-pounder, Mark Sudol, pinned Karem Heiba in 4:17 and Dan Ameral of PHS was pinned by Dennis Wells at 4:50 in the 135-pound class. Sophomore Joel Schulman lost a 6-2 decision in the 108-pound class and John Hoover, wrestling for the first year, suffered an 8-1 loss in the 188-pound division.

Earlier in the week, PHS lost, 33-18, to visiting Woodrow Wilson, despite major decisions by Wilkinson (10-1), Robinson (10-1) and O'Grady. The latter decisioned Bruce Scheerer, 13-4 in the 158-pound class. Kahn blanked Bruce Custer, 4-0, and Amarel decisioned Kevin Finley, 6-1, for Princeton's other six points.

Schulman, Mark Lovering (141-pounder), Hoover and Harris were pinned.

RANKINGS ANNOUNCED

By Tennis Association. More than 40 adult and junior tennis players from the Princeton area have earned 1975 rankings from the Middle States Tennis Association. To qualify, a player must have entered at least three MSTA tournaments.

Outstanding juniors from this area include: Mark Goodman, ranked No. 7 in the boys' 12; Flip Ruben No. 3 and Scott Clark No. 6 in the boys' 14. HALF RATE AVAILABLE

At Indoor Tennis Center. Students home for the holidays will be able to play at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road at half the usual court rate, according to manager John Conroy.

The only limitation is that reservations may not be made more than two hours in advance. No membership in the Center is required.

Since seasonal reservations are not in effect during the holiday week, all courts at the Center will be available on an open time basis. There is no time restriction for adults for reserving courts at the regular rates.

Instructional classes at the Indoor Center will resume the week of January 5, with registration now in progress for a new eight-week series for all levels of play. For reservations or further information, call the Center, 924-0015.

CLASSES SET TO START

In Winter Tennis. The Princeton Community Tennis Program has announced that while enrollment for its second session of winter indoor classes is at an all-time high, there are a few spots still open. Those interested should inquire at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, or call 924-4343.

All classes are scheduled to start the week of January 5. Junior intermediate through advanced groups will meet at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center Tuesday through Friday. Beginner and advanced beginner students will meet at the Community Park inflatable on Sundays. Adult classes will be held week nights and special, small-group adult classes, Saturdays, at the inflatable.

Complete information as to times and fees may be obtained at the Tennis Office.

15 GAMES SCHEDULED

For Mercer Hockey Club. The Mercer County Hockey Club, comprised of youths from several Mercer County communities including Princeton, West Windsor, Lawrenceville, Hopewell and Pennington, is in the midst of a 15-game schedule.

Most recently, the Club tied Beacon Hill, 4-4, after losing its opener to the Lawrenceville Jayvee team, 5-3.

As the only high-school level team not sponsored by a prep school, the Mercer County Club provides an opportunity for boys of high school age with hockey experience to continue to play competitively. Coached and administered by adult volunteers, the Club is a non-profit organization. It is open to any youth who wants to play hockey, although previous experience is desirable.

The Club plays a representative schedule of teams from the New Jersey and Philadelphia area on its home ice -- the Peddie Rink in Hightstown. Among its opponents are Cranford, Hun, Peddie, Beacon Hill, North Penn and Upper Moreland High Schools.

There is also a Mercer Hockey Club junior varsity which plays a 10-game schedule. The jayvees defeated Cranford "B", 1-0, in their first game.

Basketball on TV

Princeton's 1976 opener in the Ivy Basketball League will be televised over Channel 52, New Jersey Public Television.

The game will be played Saturday, January 3, at 8 in Jadwin Gym, with the defending champion, Pennsylvania, as the Tigers' opponent. Plans were announced earlier to televise the Rutgers-Princeton game in Jadwin on Monday, February 2. That contest will be carried on New York Channel 9.

ONE LOSS, ONE TIE

For W. Windsor in Wrestling. "Of course I was disappointed that we lost but I was happy with the way we wrestled. We lost to them "wrestling;" we just didn't lie down and let them beat us," observed West Windsor wrestling coach Ken Bernabe in the aftermath of Saturday night's 50-6 loss to powerful North Hunterdon.

Three days earlier in its opening match of the season, the Pirates had battled back from a 21-6 deficit to tie Steinert, 27-27.

West Windsor, Princeton High and the rest of the schools in the county will all participate in the annual Mercer County Tournament Saturday at Notre Dame.

The all-day event will start with preliminary matches in the morning to be followed by championship and consolation bouts in the evening. Notre Dame is the defending team champion but only five points separated last year's top four teams: Notre Dame, Ewing, Steinert and West Windsor.

Despite the walloping by the North Hunterdon Lions, described by Bernabe as "awfully powerful," Bernabe saw some bright spots.

The most incandescent was Chris Holcombe's third-period "stack" pin of the Lions' Brent Hudnutt in the 188-pound class. Hudnutt, a District champion last year, is a younger brother of Walt Hudnutt, a former State champion. Holcombe led all the way.

Less fortunate was his younger brother, Chris, who was defeated by Dean Van Arsdale, a regional champion for the Lions last year, in the 170-pound division. It was Chris' first loss in many matches.

Other close bouts which served to underline Bernabe's contention that the match was a lot closer than the score indicated, was a 9-7 loss by Ernie Rich in the 129-pound class after Rich had led early, 5-0, and a 5-2 setback suffered by Pirate heavyweight Daryl MacPherson. MacPherson gave away more than 20 pounds.

Steinert Starts Fast. "I knew it was going to go right down to the wire," said Bernabe of the opening match with Steinert and he couldn't have been more accurate, although the Spartans started off as if intent to make a poor prognosticator of the WW coach.

After two bouts, Steinert owned a 12-0 lead following a Don Adams pin (2:58) of Mark Edenfield in the 101-pound class and a Bill Fosbrook pin (4:49) of Glenn Shipley.

West Windsor captured seven of the 12 matches but the Spartans recorded two more pins -- the victims were Ernie Rich and Pete Slinn, 158-pounder -- to leave the visiting Pirates needing two falls and a decision to tie.

Rich Holcombe pinned Jim Levy in 2:45 and brother Chris flattened his opponent in 5:24. MacPherson then decisioned John Paris in the pandemonium-filled gym for the deadlock. Earning decisions for West Windsor were Houtenville (5-2), Wellnitz (5-3), Scott Peet (4-3) and George Noble (5-1).

Churches Planning Varied Christmas Services

NATIVITY TABLEAU: Nassau Church will present its traditional Christmas pageant of Nativity scenes along with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper Christmas Eve at 5 and again at 10. For other church services this Christmas Eve and Morning, see story this page.

News Of The CHURCHES

Carols and candlelight will mark the many Christmas Eve and Christmas Day services at Princeton area churches.

Nassau Presbyterian Church will hold its traditional re-telling of the Christmas story in a series of tableaux presented by the Senior High Fellowship, along with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Christmas Eve services at 5 and again at 10. The handbell choir will ring the English handbells 20 minutes before the beginning of each service, which will last an hour.

There will be special music by the Junior Choir and the Adult Choir, both under the direction of Mary Krimmel, and a solo by Eve Bloom. After both services, the congregation will gather on the front steps of the sanctuary for a time of caroling, accompanied by a brass ensemble led by Phil La Bar.

Louise Goss and Huntington Bliss will be the narrators for both services, and members of the Senior High Fellowship will enact the Pageant, which has been written and directed by Bob Martin.

Princeton United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue, will hold its traditional Candlelighting Service Christmas Eve at 7:30.

Members of Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Road, will go caroling Christmas Eve, leaving the church at 7.

Mass will be said at St. Paul's, 214 Nassau Street, at 7:30 and at midnight on Christmas Eve, preceded by carols at 11:30. On Christmas there will be Mass at 7, 8:30, 10 and 11:30, but not at 5 p.m.

Christmas Eve at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street will include Festival Eucharist Services at 8 and 11 p.m. The Trinity Adult Choir and Girls Choirs will sing Christmas Motets and Carols at the 8 o'clock service.

Preceding the traditional Christmas Eve Midnight Mass, the choristers of the choir will sing "A Ceremony of Carol" by Benjamin Britten with Mary Helbig, harpist. Traditional carols and the motet, "Hodie Christus Natus Est" by Sweelinck will be sung by the choir of Men, Boys and Girls during the service. James Litton will conduct the choirs; Harold Pysher will be organist.

Christmas Day Service at Trinity will be Holy Communion at 9:30 a.m.

Traditional services marking Christmas will be held at the Princeton University Chapel at 8 p.m. Christmas Eve and Holy Communion at 11 on Christmas morning. The Princeton Day School Consort (a recorder quartet) and Madrigal Singers under the direction of Frank Jacobson and the Princeton Regional Ballet, with Ms. Ruth Langridge as choreographer, will participate in the Christmas Eve service. Julian Jaynes of the Princeton University Department of Psychology will be the reader, and Greg Smith, an undergraduate, will be the organist.

The Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads, will hold Candlelight Services Christmas Eve at 5 and 7, to which families with children are particularly welcome.

At All Saints' Church, off Terhune Road, Malcolm Williamson's opera for children and congregation, "A Winter Star," will be performed as part of a service of Holy Eucharist at 4 p.m. The All Saints' Youth Choir with members of the Church School and instrumentalists will perform the work, which is directed by David Agler.

At 10:30 there will be a recital of music for soprano, string orchestra, organ and harpsichord using works by Scarlatti and Handel. At 11 p.m. Holy Eucharist there will be music of Mozart and Sweelinck as well as traditional carols.

On Christmas Day All Saints' will hold a service of Holy Eucharist at 10 a.m. with carols and instrumental music played by Emily and Francine Swartzentruber.

At the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church, South Mill Road at Village Road, Princeton Junction, there will be a Family Carol Service at 7:30 and a Candlelight Communion Service at 11. James S. Weaver is minister.

LESSONS AND CAROLS

Sunday at Trinity Church. The Trinity Church Choir of Men, Boys and Girls will present the traditional Festival of Lessons and Carols on the First Sunday After Christmas at 11:15. This service was made famous by the choir of King's College in Cambridge, England, and many consider it to be one of the musical and devotional highlights of the season.

Carols to be sung during the service are from many centuries and many national backgrounds. A single choir boy begins the service singing the first stanza of "Once in Royal David's City," and the service ends with the carol, "O Come All Ye Faithful" sung by choir and congregation. The lessons are read by a choir boy, choir girl, acolyte, various lay members of the parish, members of the vestry, and the final lesson by the rector, the Rev. James R. Whittemore.

The readers for the service have been coached by Mrs. Kenneth R. Chorley. The readings will include traditional Christmas lessons from the Bible as well as readings from Shakespeare, Auden, Eliot, Donne, Milton and William Austin.

BULLETIN

The Faith and Fellowship Society of the Bunker Hill Lutheran Church of Griggstown will sponsor a special Christmas Service on December 28 at 7 p.m. Willie Gundersen, a Princeton Theological Seminary Student from Fergus Falls, Minn. will be guest speaker.

Did you ever hear the autonomic nervous system work? Believe it or not, the autonomic nervous system is something we are almost unconcious of -- it controls the functioning of bodily organs, heart, lungs, digestive tract and glands. In turn, this system is divided into the sympathetic and parasympathetic systems. The sympathetic nerves speed up function, and the parasympathetic slows it down, and acts as a brake on the activities. But this whole nervous system is not controlled by conscious thought -- it is self-controlling, which is probably why we do not hear it work or hear very much about it, for that matter.
